Dear Ms. Henney,

I am very, very concerned about the adulteration of milk with genetically engineered bovine growth hormone and support all of the arguments against the introduction of bgh into our food. I am disappointed that the FDA has once again created an obstacle to an open forum. I know you will contend it was only a matter of logistics but the issue is too important for every effort not to have been taken to ensure its going ahead as scheduled. Please consider the fears of the public very seriously and respectfully listen to the other point of view. If the FDA is wrong and genetic engineering as it is conducted today does prove to be harmful, your conscience will suffer greatly and I am afraid that you, in your position of influence will be culpable. This is too important to be cavalier in dismissing doubts. Thank you and wishing you humane judgement,
Jane Bialosky
